The research that uses non-human animals. All research involving non-human subjects must comply with appropriate federal, state and local regulations pertaining to the care of human subjects as research, including all requirements of the United States Department of Health and Human Services. The part of the grant may be used to support any research involving non-human subjects that does not have the approval of the appropriate Institutional Review Board (IRB). Appropriate IRB approval must be in place before research involving human subjects commences. Each copy of the IRB approval must be maintained and in effect throughout the research project. All policies, laws and human subject and animal policies governing the conduct of research must be followed without exception, including, but not limited to those relating to human subject protection, isolation and containment, and safety. The grantee is responsible for ensuring that the research conducted in part of the grant is in compliance with all federal, state and local policies and regulations. DDCF must be notified immediately if there are any regulatory issues, protocol violations or policy changes that impact the research. The DDCF should be consulted to conduct the research as part of this grant.

Progress and financial reports must be completed using the Foundation's web-based application and reporting system. A link to the online report form that requires a template for financial report and detailed instructions will be provided to the grantee upon appropriate notification. Final reports must be submitted by the date. Please note that all research-related activities, including project development and maintenance, may be required to be conducted over the entire period of the grant. This includes any personnel, facilities, equipment, infrastructure, information, and other resources required. The final report shall detail all financial transactions and results for the period covered by the grant. The final report shall also include a statement of any other non-federal funds and/or other sources of support received for the project, as well as a statement of the long-term plans for the use of the grant funds.

The Foundation reserves the right to validate information relating to the grant funds it has made to or on behalf of the grantee. In no event shall the Foundation be responsible for any losses or damages suffered by the grantee resulting from the grant funds. The grantee shall keep the Foundation informed of any changes in the grantee's financial condition and any material changes that could affect the grant's performance or the grantee's ability to perform the work.

The Foundation reserves the right to disburse funds in accordance with the terms of the agreement. The Foundation may require additional information or documentation as it deems necessary to ensure compliance with the terms of the agreement. The Foundation may retain the right to audit the grantee's financial records and require that the grantee provide all necessary information to the Foundation. The grantee shall not be entitled to any funds if the Foundation determines that the grantee has not complied with the terms of the agreement. The grantee shall be responsible for all costs and expenses incurred in performing the work, including any costs associated with the grantee's internal administration of the grant funds.

The Foundation reserves the right to require that any publication resulting from this grant be made freely available to the public as promptly as possible to allow the public to access, read and freely quote or cite any research results or publications available to the public through DDCF's membership in the Health Research Alliance (HRA) (a national consortium of non-profit, nonprofit, academic, government, and public health organizations). DDCF will provide detailed instructions for preparing documents in PMC to ensure that all research results are made freely available in a fully open access format.
